CASE STUDY Oil & Gas Sector

The oil & gas industry is known to have some of the most high-risk, safety-sensitive positions globally. Injuries and fatalities, including slips and falls, gas poisoning, electrocution, explosion, hearing loss, and lung disease due to harmful exposure to airborne particulates are just some of the many risks and threats this sector poses to its workers. Despite the dangers inherent in this industry, a focus on building strong health and safety cultures has driven huge improvements that better protect the industry's workers. In fact, over the last 20 years, fatalities have been reduced by 70% in Canada. This case study explores how 2 companies are taking strides to lower their incident rates across North America.

ABOUT

Headquartered in Calgary, with operations centers in Odessa, Texas and Leduc, Alberta, Citadel Drilling is service-focused and caters to clients' needs with a fleet of modern, technically advanced AC triple (TA²CT) rigs designed to optimize efficiencies and reduce expensive downtime and labor costs.

Citadel also incorporated Opla Energy Ltd., which provides innovative managed pressure drilling (MPD) solutions through cutting edge technology and best in class engineering solutions.

SureHire is proud to support these leading companies in their efforts to build foundations for safe, healthy and productive workforces. For over a decade, SureHire has been a trusted provider of occupational testing services for Citadel, and with our expansion into the US, we are excited to support the growth and development of both Citadel and Opla, now across North America.

Citadel had been using SureHire in Canada for many years prior to our rigs moving into the US. We wanted to be able to implement the same system in the U.S. Having consistency across the board was very important to us.
